Chapter 1 by Derek Ramos

I don't have that much time editing this story. Right now a riot is surrounding my house most of them are shouting and cussing, I don't even know what happened this morning or the previous night all I know is that in the local news and in my social media that a "giant" has been spotted in my city; basically, that giant has destroyed parts of my neighborhood that's causing many riots around my house. The only proof of what happened to me and what caused these strange events are in my and anonymous online posts etc.. Here are the various posts in chronological order:

January 3, 2016

Today, we are having an annual field trip to the science museum and our teacher wants us to write about the new exhibit "The Dead and the Strange". Still I don't know why all my classmates are so excited about seeing skeletons, morbid things, and World's First Skeleton. One that interests me (and maybe should write about) is the Mad Potion Room where you can see experiments of scientists a long ago and able to "create a fake potion for yours to keep". I made mines and it's called the Huge Thumb (I won't post the ingredients because most of them are made up). I can't wait to show this to my teacher and siblings.
